Subject: 2008 Street Improvements Project

AJ –

The City of Muscatine embarked on an intensive three year program to fix the existing streets in the community at an estimated cost of $5 million. The asphalt overlay project began in 2007 resulting in almost 5.79 miles of street resurfacing ($1.2 million). This project is driven by a Pavement Management Plan developed by The City of Muscatine and the Center for Transportation Research and Education (CTRE), a research arm of Iowa State University. At the center of the Plan is the Pavement Condition Index (PCI) which serves as the standard that is set to upgrade the city streets. The desired PCI rating is 60. Prior to the 2007 construction season Muscatine's average PCI was 46. Once the Pavement Management Plan is completed the Muscatine PCI level should raise to 60 – 65. Before last year's (2007) overlay efforts, 70% of the streets in Muscatine fell below 60 PCI.

The Pavement Management Program lists roadways by priority in order to meet this three year goal. The roads affected are a mix of maintenance requirements – from asphalt overlay to cracksealing. They include a combination of PCI ratings in order to ensure that good roads stay in that condition. We are proposing to resurface 9.2 miles of roadway during the 2008 construction season ($2 million). Nearly 35 streets (and 146 manholes) will be impacted by this year's improvements. The Pavement management Plan (and software program used) will continue to be upgraded to build our data base to include traffic counts, roadway upgrades, and maintenance work order data – all of which impacts the community's transportation requirements.

The Public Hearing and future resolutions set in motion Year #2 of this plan at an estimated cost of $2 million. If you have any questions, please contact me.
